

CHANCELLOR'S REPORT on Philanthropy

Fall 2016

Usibelli Coal Mine — Generations of support

Usibelli Coal Mine (UCM)

Usibelli Coal Mine (UCM) is a coal mine located in the town of Usibelli, Pennsylvania. It is one of the largest coal mines in the state and has been a major source of employment and revenue for the community since its opening in 1964.

The mine's history is closely tied to the coal industry in Pennsylvania, which has been a major source of energy for the state since the late 19th century. The mine's operations have provided a steady stream of jobs for the community, and its revenue has supported a wide range of social and economic programs. In recent years, the mine has faced challenges from declining coal prices and increasing environmental concerns, but it remains a vital part of the local economy.

The mine's support for the community is a testament to the power of philanthropy. Through its generous contributions, UCM has helped to improve the lives of its employees and the residents of Usibelli. The mine's support has been instrumental in the development of schools, libraries, and other community facilities. It has also helped to fund a wide range of social and economic programs, including job training, health care, and housing assistance.

The mine's support for the community is a model of corporate social responsibility. It demonstrates how a large, successful business can use its resources to benefit the community and improve the lives of its employees. The mine's support is a source of pride for the community and a testament to the power of philanthropy.

Generous gifts over $25,000

CORPORATION

Alyeska Pipeline Service Company

BP

Chugach Alaska

CoBank

Flint Hills Resources Alaska

Pollock Conservation Cooperative

TOTE Maritime

Wells Fargo

INDIVIDUAL

anonymous donor

Michelle Aubry and Peter Christensen

Don Bray

E.R. Dolly Dieter

Donald H. Eyinck